A GAS VICTIM

DR. CLIFFORD FOSTER, PHYSICIAN-NURSE AT HOSPITAL, IS OVERCOME WHILE WORKING ON AUTO IN GARAGE

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS BY WIFE

Restorative Measures Are Successful And Condition of Reelsville Man, Is Now Reported As Very Satisfactory

Hearing the motor of her husband's automobile running and noting that the door of the garage was closed, Mrs. Clifford Foster, of Reelsville, wife of Dr. Clifford Foster, a nurse at the State Farm hospital, at Putnamville, went to the garage and found her husband lying in an unconscious condition at the rear of his automobile, just inside the garage doors.

Mrs. Foster immediately opened the garage doors, shut off the automobile motor and summoned medical aid. It was several hours before Dr. Foster was restored to consciousness. Reports today are that he is getting along nicely.

Dr. Foster had gone to the garage shortly after noon Thursday to work on his auto. Mrs. Foster had started to the postoffice to mail a letter when she was attracted by the running motor. Evidently the doors of the garage had blown shut while he was at work, and the poisonous carbon monoxide gas quickly brought unconsciousness. Had Mrs. Foster not reached her husband just at the time she did the results probably would have been fatal.

Dr. Foster is about 45 years old and is the physician-nurse at the State Farm hospital.

PROPERTY ON NORTH COLLEGE AVENUE IS SOLD TO SATISFY MORTGAGE HELD BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

The property of the defunct Greencastle garment company on North College avenue was sold to the First National Bank of Greencastle as trustee for the Greencastle Chamber of Commerce at sheriff's sale this afternoon.

A mortgage was recently foreclosed against the property by the First National bank. The garment company has been in the hands of a receiver for some time, but the enterprise was formerly operated by Sol Rosenthal of Chicago.

Charles McGaughey acted for the Chamber of Commerce in making the purchase, and bought the factory for $2,443.91, which represented the judgment in favor of the bank and the accrued taxes.

The building will be used by the Chamber of Commerce to induce some factory to locate here. The purchase of the building enables the Chamber of Commerce to be prepared to offer a site to any factory desirous of locating here. In the past a number of such industries have been turned away for lack of an available site.

COUNCIL VIEWS PROPOSED NEW HIGHWAY TODAY

COUNTY BODY IN JOINT SESSION WITH MORGAN COUNTY OFFICIALS AT AMITY CHURCH—DETERMINE ROAD UTILITY

The Putnam county council and the Morgan county council met in joint session in the Amity church this afternoon and voted to build the Putnam and Morgan county line road. The construction to be paid for with gasoline tax money.

The county councils of Putnam and Morgan counties held a joint meeting at the Amity church near the proposed Morgan and Putnam county line road to determine the utility of the proposed highway today. The meeting started at 10:30 o'clock this morning and the members of the two county councils were to view the road.

This proposed highway is about three-quarters of a mile long and is to be constructed as a county unit road, under the county unit law, which provides that the cost of building shall be borne by the entire county and not by the single township affected.

Putnam county officials have suggested paying for the construction of the road from gasoline tax money, because of the excessive overhead expense connected with a bond issue for such a small construction project, but Morgan county officials have refused because they state no such funds are available. It was said here today.

The Putnam county council is composed of the following men: John Sinclair, Charles McFarlan, George Akers, H. C. Foster, H. C. Morrison, William Bridges and George Ensign. Although no definite action had been taken by the two councils in joint session at press time this afternoon it appeared likely that the building of the road would be sanctioned as all members of both councils seemed agreed on the utility of the highway.

A controversy is said to have arisen on the method of paying for the construction, however, as Putnam county officials desired to pay for the improvement from the gasoline tax monies, while Morgan county officials are said to have favored a bond issue.

Auditor W. E. Gill, who attended the session, stated this afternoon that the overhead expense connected with the selling of the bond issue would be almost as much as the actual cost of construction, while all overhead expense would be eliminated if the road were constructed from the gasoline tax fund. Morgan county officials are said to have admitted to Gill that the fund was available, but they did not favor the expenditure of it for this particular road.

Will Have Charge of Entire Veteran Sponsored Program In Territory—Boys Under Seventeen Eligible To Enter

Raymond "Gummy" Neal, football coach at DePauw University has been appointed Fifth District Athletic Officer of the American Legion and will be in complete charge of the Legion's Junior Baseball Program for this district according to an announcement made today by Wilbur Donner of Greencastle District Commander of the Legion.

"GUMMY" NEAL

Neal's first statement regarding Junior baseball was, "All boys of the Fifth District, under seventeen years of age should be given an opportunity to take part in the 1931 program. The Fifth District has had the honor of having two State Champions, the Blanford Cubs of Blanford in 1928 and the Kelly Kids of Clinton last year. The Clinton team lost out in the final game of the National Regional Tourney last year at Battle Creek, Mich., losing to Cincinnati in an extra inning game. It is only proper that each Legion Post in the Fifth District should sponsor a team in this years program and try and keep the championship in this district."

Reports from Terre Haute indicate that they are going after the championship inasmuch as arrangements have already been made for the Posts to have six Junior teams in the field.

Neal urges each Legion Post in this district to get in touch with him at once regarding Junior baseball.

Commander Robert Hoffman of the Putnam post No. 58 of the Legion today announced that plans were being completed by the post whereby a junior baseball team would represent Putnam County in the annual championship play sponsored by the Legion.

MACHINE GUNS TRAINED ON SIX BURKE OUTLAWS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 9.—A hundred men today stood guard over six men captured in a spectacular roundup, which was part of a desperate drive by Illinois police to stamp out kidnaping gangs, which have terrorized the middle west and which are said to have headquarters in Springfield.

The six men are suspected of kidnaping and holding six wealthy gamblers and bankers for ransom and are charged with robbing many banks. They were brought to Springfield by fifty state police, a dozen officers from St. Clair county and a squad of picked men from Chicago.

Behind the men, who were handcuffed together, rode officers with machine guns and shotguns ready as it had been feared an attempt would be made to ambush the caravan.

The men held are William McQuillion, Jack Britt, Howard Lee, Ed Hawks, Tommy Hayes and Thomas O'Connor. They are said to be the last of Fred Burke's gang.

Ten men were taken in the raid late yesterday on a flat in Broadway, principal business street in East St. Louis. Three of them were released immediately and another, Dewey Sullivan, was turned over to city police.

Among the crimes which the men were suspected of were the kidnapings of Dr. Isaac D. Kelley, Jr., St. Louis; Fred Blumer, Monroe, Wis.; and James Hackett, Chicago, and the killing of Mrs. Cora Garrison in an attempt to kidnap her husband, a wealthy Peoria (Ill.) gambler.

Britt and O'Connor once were arrested and tentatively identified as the slayers of Mrs. Garrison.

Although the men surrendered peacefully, Hayes later became violent, threw a cuspidor at a photographer, missed and broke a window. He became peaceful again on the ride to Springfield, with machine guns bristling on all sides of him.

At Sterling, Chief Moody said the raid had been planned for some time and had been delayed until all the men could be caught together. Moody said he sent his entire force of more than 100 men into the drive against kidnappers after Governor Emmerson gave him orders to "drive every hoodlum out of Illinois."

"This is just a start," Moody asserted.

RANDOM CHOICE MADE FOR KIRKLAND JURORS

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 9.—Deputy sheriffs are again riding in Porter county, but this time they are on no special destination. Every man or woman who looks like a jury prospect is being summoned to appear in Porter circuit court Monday to be examined for jury service in retrial of Virgil Kirkland. This order was issued when the last of the fifth venire had been exhausted.

John Underwood, chief deputy prosecutor made no strenuous protest as was anticipated. However, the state did not take kindly to his manner of drawing veniremen. Despite the fact neither side desires women on the jury, Judge Grant Crumpacker's order did not discriminate against them. When court adjourned only seven of the eleven men in the box were certain of being selected. The state has exercised eight of its twenty peremptory challenges while the defense has used twelve.

Kirkland is not the jaunty figure of his first trial. The incessant assertions by veniremen that they have fixed opinions that can not be removed by evidence has dinged into his ears until he is showing fright. He is watching closely the questioning of men who in any way are likely to pass on his fate. Yesterday he ordered his attorneys to dismiss one man from the panel. He was Clayton Phillips, a farmer.

Phillips, a church leader, rabid dry member of the Anti-Saloon League, and admitted member of the Ku Klux Klan, was kept on the panel two days. Kirkland told his attorneys he did not like his determined look. A move was made to challenge him for cause on ground he would be prejudiced against the defendant. Judge Crumpacker sustained the state's objection, ruling any man might have such a natural prejudice without disqualifying him for jury service. The defense then peremptorily excused Phillips.

Sheriff Alva Bryan this afternoon went to Lebanon to return "Frosty" Jones of North Putnam county, who is wanted on a warrant issued from the Hendricks circuit court of Danville. HOLDS BOARD OF EDUCATION CANNOT NAME COUNTY AGENT

FRANKFORT, Ind., May 9.—Powers of a county board of education do not include the right to name a county agent or fix his salary, P. H. Dawson, Clinton county attorney ruled recently.

Last week the Clinton county board of education attempted to reappoint V. J. Mann to the office and to reduce his salary.

Dawson said that the county agent could be appointed only by Purdue university and his salary determined only by the county council. The education board may approve the appointment, but cannot name the agent or abolish the office Dawson held.

The Putnam county board of education recently named E. W. Baker of Russellville as Putnam county agent.

NEVER MARRIED; FILES FOR DIVORCE AND SUPPORT MONEY

PERU, Ind., May 9.—Although she never was legally married, Mrs. Frances McFagan, 29 years old, of near here, has filed suit in Miami Circuit court for a divorce from Joseph H. McFagan, Cass county farmer, and is demanding support for her year-old baby.

At a hearing this morning for temporary support, Mrs. McFagan told Judge Hurd Hurst that "Joseph and I attended a beer party in Wabash on the night of March 7, 1928, when an elderly man read something from a book and I thought we were married."

McFagan admitted taking the girl, who was then 17, to the beer party and also told of registering with her at a hotel as man and wife.

Judge Hurst continued the hearing until Tuesday and ruled that the legality of the common law marriage would be determined at the divorce trial rather than during the present action for temporary support.

MANY TEACHERS CUT OFF STATE AID PAY ROLL

EDUCATION BOARD SETS UP NEW RULES—COLE SAYS INSTITUTIONS ARE ALREADY HARD PRESSED—COMPROMISE EFFECTED

INDIANAPOLIS, May 9.—Approximately two hundred teachers in state aid territory of southern Indiana will be cut out of the school pay rolls next fall because of new rules adopted by the state board of education, it was learned yesterday.

The reduced teaching staff probably will cripple the southern Indiana educational system, George C. Cole, state superintendent of public instruction intimated.

"Schools in the state aid territory have been operated with a minimum of teachers and at a minimum expense," Mr. Cole said. "The schools have been operated as cheaply as was possible to maintain the standards required by the state education department."

Before becoming state superintendent Mr. Cole was a county school superintendent in Dearborn county, a state aid county, and was a member of Governor Harry G. Leslie's state aid commission.

"With the reduction in teachers made by the new rules, some of the schools in state aid territory will not be able to meet the state requirements," he declared.

He added, however, that the education board is trying to "get the best possible schools at the least possible cost."

Approximately fifty county superintendents and school principals appeared before the state aid committee of the education board yesterday with complaints against reductions in their various schools. In most cases, Mr. Cole said, satisfactory compromises were effected. The new schedules, drafted by W. A. Wirt, superintendent of Gary schools and chairman of the state aid committee, will effect savings which may reach $200,000, it was said.

The schedule is based upon a pupil teacher ratio. One teacher is permitted for elementary schools of five to fifteen pupils; two teachers for schools of sixteen to thirty-six pupils and a gradual increase up to nine teachers for schools with 366 to 345 pupils. The high school ratio begins with schools of thirty-five to seventy-five pupils, for which three teachers are permitted, and ranges up to twelve teachers for schools of 321 to 359 pupils.

Complete charge of the state aid plans now rests with the state aid committee of the education board. Formerly the control was under a state aid department.

COST PADDING CASE RESTED BY STATE

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., May 9.—After hearing testimony in Circuit court here the last four days, the state rested its case against Ralph Rogers, Pike road contractor of this city, under indictment by the Monroe county grand jury for conspiracy to commit a felony. Rogers is charged with falsifying claims filed against the state highway commission for crushed stone provided by him in 1928 in building state road No. 37 between Bloomington and Martinsville.

Will Sayers, who was state highway maintenance superintendent for this district at the time, was indicted jointly with Rogers.

The state introduced witnesses who testified they were paid by Rogers for charging for more loads of stone than were provided. The defense, which will start its testimony Monday morning will claim that there is a conspiracy to get Rogers and that he is innocent.

SWEET CREAM BUTTER

Churned From Pasteurized Cream

Just what is Sweet Cream Butter—why is it so different, you ask? The answer is simple . . . it is butter made from cream that has never been sour. A few years ago all butter was made from sour cream. Now a simple process has been developed whereby the sweet milk from the farm is daily separated and the sweet cream is pasteurized and cooled to churning temperature, where it is held for a few hours, and then churned into that fresh, sweet cream flavored butter.

One Simple Food Gives Babies Same Social Rating

ALL the babies—the Smiths, the Browns, the Joneses—are getting more attention today than the crowned princes of Europe ever did in the old days when royalty was next to divinity.

Columns upon columns about babies are set up daily in the composing rooms of newspapers and magazines. Editors and composers are treating infant welfare copy with great respect these days. And not least in importance is the subject of infant feeding. Physicians, too, are adding authenticity to the printed matter with their by-lines.

Recently "Northwest Medicine" carried an article by Harry C. Olmsted, M. D., of Seattle, in which he relates his experiences in infant feeding with evaporated milk.

Dr. Olmsted begins his article directly by saying, "In recent years the use of unsweetened evaporated milk as an infant food has increased rapidly. Coincident with its clinical trial, laboratory investigations by biochemists and nutrition workers have focused attention on this product. It can now be said that evaporated milk has some distinct advantages which have earned for it a prominent place in the realm of infant feeding."

Cow's milk is almost exclusively used in civilized countries for the artificial feeding of infants. He answers the queries of many perplexed mothers who have had to turn to cow's milk when their breast milk has failed, but frequently with unsatisfactory results.

"Raw milk," says Dr. Olmsted, "was designed primarily for calves, and when it is given in an unchanged state to young babies, the majority of them display digestive disturbances such as colicky distress and the vomiting or passages in stools of undigested curds of milk. In addition raw cow's milk may contain pathogenic bacteria."

Then he explained that it is the protein in the milk which causes the difficulty. The principal protein of cow's milk is casein, while the larger part of human milk protein is lactalbumen. Cow's milk casein in the baby's stomach tends to form large masses or curds of calcium caseinate which are hard to digest. Whereas small flocculent curds are formed in the baby's stomach when it gets breast milk. That is the great difference.

The curds of raw cow's milk often cause the colicky condition in very young babies.

In the simplest terms Dr. Olmsted describes evaporated milk: "It contains approximately twice as much of the individual food elements as does cow's milk. Adding to the former an equal amount of water practically restores it to its state before evaporation, as far as food values and percentages are concerned.

"Evaporated milk differs from raw cow's milk in another important manner. The casein is so changed by the manufacturing process that it forms in the infant's stomach an extremely small and flocculent curd. This alone is probably the chief factor of its high digestibility."

Frequently in cow's milk-fed babies illness is traced to tinsate milk, unsate because of carelessness in handling the milk, because of unclean utensils, or because of unhealthy herds.

"The absolute sterility of evaporated milk has never been questioned," claims Dr. Olmsted. "This is an important consideration in communities where the fresh milk supply is unsate."

"I began to use evaporated milk in infant feeding over a year ago," continues Dr. Olmsted. "Since then I have used it increasingly, not only in private practice but also in hospital wards for infants and in infant welfare clinics."

Dr. Olmsted prescribes this form of milk for premature babies who are deprived of mother's milk.

His clinical experience has also shown that evaporated milk is the most satisfactory food for children suffering from infantile eczema because, "the majority of these infants are sensitive to one or the other of the milk proteins of cow's milk and marked improvement in the cutaneous lesions is often shown when an evaporated milk is substituted for a fresh milk in the formula."

Leon Duray, Indianapolis Record Holder, Returns to 500-Mile Contest May 30

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., May.—Leon Duray, who rode the fastest lap ever driven over the two-and-one-half brick and concrete course at Indianapolis—124.018 miles an hour—returns to racing after a retirement of one year when he competes in the International 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30.

Duray, a husky, speed-blown veteran will be making his first ride in many years in two man cars—demanding riding mechanic as well as pilot—when he drives at Indianapolis this year. The new rule was established last year.

He is one of the oldest of the present crop of speeders and is regarded as one of the most spectacular pilots of all time. His driving in the lap which was the fastest ever breezed over the Indianapolis bricks is regarded as the most perfect circle of the track ever made.

GRANADA

Film Reveals Legal Tangle

A girl of the people—buffeted by Fate until she scarcely knows where to turn, finally appealing to the law to secure the justice she seeks for herself and her child—facing the bitter disappointment of finding legal technicalities barring the way—and then to have a surprising revelation bringing her back some of the happiness she craved—that is the basic theme of "Common Clay," the gripping Fox movietone offering which comes to the Granada Theatre tomorrow.

Constance Bennett, fresh from her triumphs in "Son of the Gods" and

"This Thing Called Love," plays the feminine lead in this unusual production, which has won the enthusiastic approbation of critics and public wherever it has been shown.

Lew Ayres, the young sensation of "All Quiet on the Western Front," has the leading masculine part.

PHEASANT EGGS HATCHED FOR RESTOCKING FIELDS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 9.—Work of propagating thousands of ring-neck pheasants to stock the fields and woods in Indiana for future hunting, is progressing nicely at the state's two great game preserves; Brown county and the Jasper-Pulaski county tract, and soon 25,000 eggs will be in course of incubation.

Pheasant eggs are hatched under hens, and thousands of this popular barnyard fowl are pressed into service to produce the young wild game birds.

According to Walter Shirts, fish and game division superintendent of state conservation department, approximately 15,000 pheasant eggs at the northern game preserve, and about 10,000 eggs at the Brown county game station. Conservation department officials are hopeful of an eighty percent hatch. If success is attendant to this season's work, and

CAR HITS DEAD-END HAZARD, ONE KILLED

ANDERSON, Ind., May 9.—Mrs. Ernest Mitting, 30 years old, of Grand Rapids, Mich., was killed, her husband, 38, was injured seriously and John Brunner, New York, suffered two broken ribs, when an automobile driven by Mitting plunged from the end of a dead-end road eight feet onto a railroad track here this afternoon.

The party was en route from Indianapolis to Wabash. Mitting swerved his car from state road No. 67 to a paved cut-off at the south-west edge of the city to avert a collision with another car. The car was demolished and Mrs. Mitting was pinned underneath.

Mr. Mitting, taken to St. John's hospital, suffered a badly mangled face, fractured ribs and internal injuries.

Brunner, a traveling man, who also was taken to the hospital, escaped with two broken ribs, Brunner explained the accident to the coroner.
